

e-Pedagogy and Curriculum Design: reshaping education of future

Abstract:

In the era of change, it is becoming necessary to redefine the education system according to the need of time and individuality of the learners. E- Pedagogy offers a number of possibilities for teachers to explore teaching process which are aligned to the individual needs of the learners on learning. The major challenge that institutions face is that of designing curricula that combine the flexibility in time and place of study offered by e-pedagogy without compromising skills development .
